Research Associate
Department of Social Policy and Social Work

Closing date: 12 March 2018
Interview date: 27 March 2018
Vacancy reference: 6419
INTRODUCTION

We are seeking to appoint a Research Associate to join an exciting new project in the Department of Social Policy and Social Work. This study, funded by a National Institute for Health Research Programme Grant for Applied Research, aims to develop, pilot and evaluate a social intervention for people with psychosis which aims to increase their social networks. At the heart of the intervention is a health or social care practitioner discussing with an individual their current social contacts and possibilities for expanding these. They will agree some new activities and provide support over a six-month period to engage with them. The ultimate aim is to improve an individual’s quality of life and mental health.

The research involves a number of studies across multiple sites in England. The research programme begins with interviews with people with psychosis about their social networks and how these can be expanded. We will then discuss with service users and practitioners how to refine the intervention so that it will be acceptable and feasible. Next, we will test it with a small group of people and evaluate outcomes for them. Based on the findings of these earlier studies we will conduct a large randomised controlled trial of the intervention with more than 500 people with psychosis across the sites to test whether this approach actually does improve their quality of life and mental health.

The Research Associate will be involved in all aspects of this 66-month study. This includes recruitment of participants in liaison with the research sites; interviews with practitioners and service users as required throughout the study; data entry and analysis in liaison with other members of the research team; and contributing to the writing of the final report. The postholder will primarily conduct research within Tees, Esk and Wear Valleys NHS Foundation Trust, but may be asked to support data collection in other sites (eg. London or Devon) if required. The post-holder will be required to have a wide range of inter-personal and research skills, and research experience with people with mental health problems.

The role is offered on a part time basis, however, there could be opportunities to increase hours to full time at certain points throughout the project period.

Department of Social Policy and Social Work

The Department of Social Policy & Social Work was established in 1966 and has grown over this period to become one of the largest in the world of its type. We currently have 71 (64 FTE) academic staff academic staff and a further 26 (19 FTE) staff in managerial, professional and administrative roles. The Department is broken into three constituent parts: the Research and Teaching Unit (RTU) that is responsible for the delivery of degree programmes in Social Policy, Social Work and Public Management; the Social Policy Research Unit (SPRU); and, the Centre for Housing Policy (CHP).

The Department has been fully supported by the University in its aspirations to maintain and develop its research excellence and global reputation, playing an important role in the University as one of nine departments in the Faculty of Social Science. The social sciences at York have a world class standing, and, as noted by the previous Chief Executive of ESRC, bring together one of the greatest concentrations of social science researchers in the UK, one of a handful of social science groupings which has secured two Queen’s Anniversary Prize Awards, one of which was awarded to the Social Policy Research Unit (SPRU) in recognition of the pioneering and high impact work it has lead since its formation in 1973. There are excellent connections between Social Policy & Social Work and other Social Science departments such as, Education, Economics, Health Sciences, Law, Management, Politics and Sociology as well as with the Sciences and Humanities.

We are a collegiate and research-intensive Department that also takes teaching and administration very seriously. We celebrated our 50th anniversary in the last academic year and the University has invested considerably in new appointments at all levels over recent years as we look to build on our reputation and expertise in key areas for the next 50 years. This reflects the shared of ambition of the University and the Department to make the University of York one of the world’s leading centres for social policy teaching and research.

Research

The Department has a strong research profile. In the 2014 Research Excellence Framework (REF) we were placed 3rd overall for Social Work and Social Policy and equal first for research impact, with 54% of our research activity rated as world leading. We were ranked 24th in the world for Social Policy in the 2017 QS World University Rankings. Research income generated by the Department is in excess of £2 million per annum.

Alongside the two major Research Centres (SPRU and CHP), staff working in all parts of the Department are actively engaged in research and scholarship and we have more recently established a number of thematic research centres which operate across the Department including the Centre for Research in Comparative and Global Social Policy (CRCG), the Centre for Childhood, Youth and Family Research, the Child Welfare Research Group, and the International Centre for Mental Health Social Research. As this indicates, our work addresses a wide range of themes, including: children and young people; comparative, global and international social policy; families and children; housing; health and social care;

In addition, the Department also works closely with the University of York’s Institute for Effective Education (IEE), Centre for Women’s Studies (CWS), Centre for Urban Studies (CURB) and York Environmental Sustainability Institute (YESI).

THE UNIVERSITY

Founded on principles of excellence, equality and opportunity for all, the University of York opened in 1963 with just 230 students. In 2017 it is the home of more than 17,000 students across more than 30 academic departments and research centres. Since opening over fifty years ago, we have become one of the world’s leading universities and a member of the prestigious Russell Group.

We are consistently recognised as one of the leading Higher Education Institutes and one of just six post-war universities which appear in the world top 100 (2013-14) and 15th in the Times & Sunday Times league table (2016). The University of York has won six Times Higher Education (THE) Awards and five Queen’s Anniversary Prizes.

The University is proud of its association with Athena SWAN, holding 12 awards in support of gender equality, representation and success for all, with gold awards for Chemistry and Biology and a University-wide bronze award.

The University is consistently in the top ten UK research universities and attracts over £60m a year of funding from research alone.

Our vision is to make the University of York a world leader in the creation of knowledge through fundamental and applied research, the sharing of knowledge by teaching students from varied backgrounds and the application of knowledge for the health, prosperity and well-being of people and society.
Attractive workplace

Centred around the picturesque village of Heslington on the edge of the city of York, our colleges are set in an attractive landscaped campus. York enjoys a safe, friendly atmosphere with facilities including bars, shops, theatres and concert halls all within easy walking distance.

The University has undergone an unprecedented period of expansion and renewal since 2000. We have invested in twenty new buildings on the original campus and have completed the first and second phases of a £750m campus expansion. Our investment in new colleges, teaching and learning spaces, laboratories, research facilities and a new sports village mean there has never been a better time to join us.

During this period of change we've worked hard to retain our friendly, informal and collegiate atmosphere, which is important to our core values of inclusivity and interdisciplinarity.

We have a thriving international community and are committed to providing staff moving to York with as much support as possible through our Relocation Package and Welcome Officers.

The University aims to offer a nurturing and supportive environment as an employer. Flexible working hours, nursery facilities, childcare vouchers, cycle to work scheme, generous holidays and an attractive pension scheme all make the University of York one of the region’s leading employers.
