Research Associate
Department of Social Policy and Social Work

Closing date: 26 September 2018
Interview date: To be confirmed
Vacancy reference: 6996
INTRODUCTION

An exciting opportunity has arisen for an early career researcher to work on a review of West Yorkshire Police's nationally innovative model for policing sex work in Leeds.

With fieldwork in Leeds and some project meetings in York, you will: pull together statistics (supplied by partners) on violence against sex workers in Leeds; conduct qualitative research with sex workers, police officers, other professionals and residents, including interviews and shadowing; undertake analysis of qualitative data; support co-production of a 'best practice' tool in partnership with sex workers, police and an artist; provide admin and event support; support writing up and dissemination of findings.

Leeds is one of few cities in the UK to have a specialist officer for policing sex work. The officer is key to a policing approach which prioritises protection rather than enforcement action against sex workers. The study will review the effectiveness of this specialist role and co-produce a 'best practice' tool (such as a video or infographic) which communicates findings and wider messages to other police forces and stakeholders.

You will be skilled in conducting research on sensitive topics and have experience of qualitative research with marginalised groups.

THE DEPARTMENT

The Department of Social Policy & Social Work was established in 1966 and has grown over this period to become one of the largest in the world of its type. We currently have 71 (64 FTE) academic staff academic staff and a further 26 (19 FTE) staff in managerial, professional and administrative roles. The Department is broken into three constituent parts: the Research and Teaching Unit (RTU) that is responsible for the delivery of degree programmes in Social Policy, Social Work and Public Management; the Social Policy Research Unit (SPRU); and, the Centre for Housing Policy (CHP).

The Department has been fully supported by the University in its aspirations to maintain and develop its research excellence and global reputation, playing an important role in the University as one of nine departments in the Faculty of Social Science. The social sciences at York have a world class standing, and, as noted by the previous Chief Executive of ESRC, bring together one of the greatest concentrations of social science researchers in the UK, one of a handful of social science groupings which has secured two Queen’s Anniversary Prize Awards, one of which was awarded to the Social Policy Research Unit (SPRU) in recognition of the pioneering and high impact work it has lead since its formation in 1973. There are excellent connections between Social Policy & Social Work and other Social Science departments such as, Education, Economics, Health Sciences, Law, Management, Politics and Sociology as well as with the Sciences and Humanities.

We are a collegiate and research-intensive Department that also takes teaching and administration very seriously. We celebrated our 50th anniversary in the last academic year and the University has invested considerably in new appointments at all levels over recent years as we look to build on our reputation and expertise in key areas for the next 50 years. This reflects the shared of ambition of the University and the Department to make the University of York one of the world’s leading centres for social policy teaching and research.

Research

The Department has a strong research profile. In the 2014 Research Excellence Framework (REF) we were placed 3rd overall for Social Work and Social Policy and equal first for research impact, with 54% of our research activity rated as world leading. We were ranked 24th in the world for Social Policy in the 2017 QS World University Rankings. Research income generated by the Department is in excess of £2 million per annum.

Alongside the two major Research Centres (SPRU and CHP), staff working in all parts of the Department are actively engaged in research and scholarship and we have more recently established a number of thematic research centres which operate across the Department including the Centre for Research in Comparative and Global Social Policy (CRCG), the Centre for Childhood, Youth and Family Research, the Child Welfare Research Group, and the International Centre for...
Mental Health Social Research. As this indicates, our work addresses a wide range of themes, including: children and young people; comparative, global and international social policy; families and children; housing; health and social care; social work; social security; welfare, employment and citizenship. In addition, the Department also works closely with the University of York’s Institute for Effective Education (IEE), Centre for Women’s Studies (CWS), Centre for Urban Studies (CURB) and York Environmental Sustainability Institute (YESI).
