Lecturer (Teaching & Scholarship) in Early Modern British History (1485 - c.1750)

Department of History

Closing date: 9 June 2019

Interview date: To be confirmed

Vacancy reference: 7578
INTRODUCTION

The University of York is one of the finest institutions in Europe for the advanced study of History, combining ground-breaking research with teaching programmes of incredible chronological breadth and geographic and thematic scope. The Department of History is one of the largest in the UK, with a present complement of over 45 academic staff, over 900 single-subject or combined-honours undergraduate students, and a graduate school of more than 150 students on various postgraduate programmes.

The Times Higher Education’s ranking of the Research Excellence Framework (REF 2014) placed the Department second overall for research performance, as well as in the top 10 for both the quality of its outputs and the impact of its research outside academia. The Department is ranked in the top 15 for History in the UK in the Complete University Guide 2019 and the top 10 in the in the UK in the Times Good University Guide 2019. The current Head of Department is Professor Lawrence Black, who can be contacted at lawrence.black@york.ac.uk.

Following the award of a Leverhulme Major Research Fellowship to Prof David Wootton, the Department seeks to appoint a Teaching and Scholarship Lecturer in Early Modern British History (1485 - c 1750). You should have a PhD in history or a cognate discipline relevant to the post, with a preference for a knowledge of the political, religious and material cultural history of the period. You should also ideally hold an appropriate teaching qualification and have experience of successful planning, design and delivery of teaching across a range of modules at undergraduate, and preferably, postgraduate level.

The Department is committed to equality and diversity and strives to ensure the working and learning environment is welcoming, fair, and inclusive for staff and students alike - somewhere everyone can fulfil their potential. This is reflected in staff and student recruitment, and in departmental posts, career development, and promotion. The Department has been awarded a Bronze Athena Swan award.

We particularly welcome applications from BME staff.

The Department of History is open to considering applications for flexible working.

The Department has an international reputation for research and teaching over a chronological span from Late Antiquity to the Twentieth-First Century. Its strengths are organized into nine research clusters: Medieval, Early Modern, Eighteenth Century, Modern Europe, Asia & Middle East, Religion, Public History, Science, Technology, Environment & Medicine, and the Americas. The Department’s PhD programme is one of the largest and best-funded in the UK with around 70 PhD students currently registered.

The Department has a strong commitment to interdisciplinarity. Members of the Department are leading participants in the University’s interdisciplinary Centres: for Medieval Studies (CMS), for Renaissance and Early Modern Studies (CREMS), Eighteenth-Century Studies (CECS), Women’s Studies (CWS), for Modern Studies (CMODS) and Historical Economics and Related Research (CHERRY). Most of these centres offer interdisciplinary MA and PhD programmes. The Department’s commitment to interdisciplinarity is further evidenced in the wide range of undergraduate combined programmes, the MA in Contemporary History and International Politics as well as individual modules at the undergraduate and postgraduate level.

Candidates may be particularly interested in contributing to the Centre for Renaissance and Early Modern Studies (https://www.york.ac.uk/crems/) (CREMS) and the Centre for Eighteenth Century Studies (https://www.york.ac.uk/eighteenth-century-studies/):

Founded in 2005, Centre for Renaissance and Early Modern Studies (https://www.york.ac.uk/crems/) is a thriving interdisciplinary community devoted to the study of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries. It brings together more than 40 academics and more than 60 PhD students from 9 leading departments: English and Related Literature (http://www.york.ac.uk/english/), History (http://www.york.ac.uk/history/), History of Art (http://www.york.ac.uk/history-of-art/), Archaeology (http://www.york.ac.uk/archaeology/), Music (http://www.york.ac.uk/music/), Philosophy (http://www.york.ac.uk/philosophy/), Politics (http://www.york.ac.uk/politics/), Education (http://www.york.ac.uk/education/), and Theatre, Film and Television (http://www.york.ac.uk/tftv/), making it one of the largest and liveliest centres of its kind in the world. It also offers an interdisciplinary MA programme.

The Centre for Eighteenth Century Studies (https://www.york.ac.uk/eighteenth-century-studies/) was founded in 1996 at the University of York and is based at the historic King’s Manor in the heart of the city. Its staff members are drawn from the departments of Archaeology (https://www.york.ac.uk/archaeology/), History (http://www.york.ac.uk/history/), History of Art (http://www.york.ac.uk/history-of-art/), and Theatre, Film and Television (http://www.york.ac.uk/tftv/).
THE DEPARTMENT

www.york.ac.uk/archaeology/), English (https://www.york.ac.uk/english/), History (https://www.york.ac.uk/history/), and History of Art (https://www.york.ac.uk/history-of-art/). The Centre has a lively research community within which students can individually and collaboratively pursue their interests in the history, culture, politics, literature, art and society of the period.

Within the Department of History itself there are also research centres, including the Centre for the Study of Christianity and Culture, the Institute for the Public Understanding of the Past (IPUP) where the MA in Public History is based; and the Centre for Global Health Histories (CGHH), which is at the forefront of the Department’s research in medical humanities, collaborates with the WHO and offers an MA in Medical Humanities and History.

The University provides systematic and sustained support to the development of research facilities and resources for the Humanities. The Raymond Burton Library, a purpose-built facility within the University Library, houses a series of important research collections and supports an extensive collection of on-line electronic research resources. The Borthwick Institute for Archives, adjoining the University Library, is a major public record office with particularly strong holdings on the social, economic and religious history of northern England and other more diverse collections, including medical history; many staff make active use of these archival resources in their teaching. The new Humanities Research Centre, which provides first-class facilities for research projects, PhD students, conferences and seminars, was opened in autumn 2009, with a strong representation from the History department.

Founded on principles of excellence, equality and opportunity for all, the University of York opened in 1963 with just 230 students. In 2019 it is the home of more than 18,000 students across more than 30 academic departments and research centres. Since opening over fifty years ago, we have become one of the world's leading universities and a member of the prestigious Russell Group.

We are consistently recognised as one of the leading Higher Education Institutes and one of just six post-war universities to have appeared in the world top 100. We were rated 22nd in the 2019 Times & Sunday Times league table. The University of York has won six Times Higher Education (THE) Awards and five Queen’s Anniversary Prizes.

The University is proud of its association with Athena SWAN, holding multiple awards in support of gender equality, representation and success for all, with gold awards for Chemistry and Biology and a University-wide bronze award.

Of 154 universities that took part in the Research Excellence Framework (REF) in 2014, The University of York ranked 14th overall and 10th for the impact of our research. The University is consistently in the top ten UK research universities and attracts over £60m a year of funding from research alone.

Our vision is to make the University of York a world leader in the creation of knowledge through fundamental and applied research, the sharing of knowledge by teaching students from varied backgrounds and the application of knowledge for the health, prosperity and well-being of people and society.
Attractive workplace

Centred around the picturesque village of Heslington on the edge of the city of York, our colleges are set in an attractive landscaped campus. York enjoys a safe, friendly atmosphere with facilities including bars, shops, theatres and concert halls all within easy walking distance.

The University has undergone an unprecedented period of expansion and renewal since 2000. We have invested in twenty new buildings on the original campus and have completed the first and second phases of a £750m campus expansion. Our investment in new colleges, teaching and learning spaces, laboratories, research facilities and a new sports village mean there has never been a better time to join us.

During this period of change we’ve worked hard to retain our friendly, informal and collegiate atmosphere, which is important to our core values of inclusivity and interdisciplinarity.

We have a thriving international community and are committed to providing staff moving to York with as much support as possible through our Relocation Package and Welcome Officers.

The University is committed to promoting a diverse and inclusive community - a place where we can all be ourselves and succeed on merit. We offer a range of family friendly, inclusive employment policies, flexible working arrangements, staff engagement forums, campus facilities and services to support staff from different backgrounds.

THE CITY AND THE REGION

The City of York

Internationally acclaimed for its rich heritage and historic architecture, York’s bustling streets are filled with visitors from all over the world. Within its medieval walls you will find the iconic gothic Minster, Clifford’s Tower and the Shambles - just a few of the many attractions.

But York isn’t just a great place to visit - it’s also a great place to live and work. While nourishing a vibrant cosmopolitan atmosphere, York still maintains the friendly sense of community unique to a small city.

Visit www.visityork.org for more information on the city of York.

Shopping, culture and entertainment

York boasts specialist and unique boutiques but also all the high street stores on its busy shopping streets. Alongside them you will find cinemas, theatres, an opera house, art galleries, a vast range of restaurants, live music venues and clubs. York is particularly renowned for its multitude of pubs and bars, from the modern to the medieval.

Housing and schools

Whether you choose to live close to the city, in one of the surrounding villages or further afield, you will find a wide range of housing within comfortable distance of York and the University. For families, the area has a range of excellent schools both in the state and independent sector.

Great location

York is one of Britain’s best-connected cities. Halfway between London and Edinburgh on the East Coast mainline, on intercity trains you can reach London King’s Cross in less than two hours and Edinburgh in two and a half hours. York is also well served by road links, and it is easily accessible from the A1, M1 and the M62.

For those travelling from overseas, Manchester Airport is two hours away and Heathrow Airport just three and a half. Flights from nearby Leeds Bradford Airport provide easy access to mainland Europe. By Eurostar from London St Pancras, Paris is just over six hours away.

Yorkshire

The Lonely Planet guide recently declared Yorkshire the third best region in the world to visit. There is something to cater to every taste, whether it be the rugged landscapes of the Moors or the Dales, the picturesque seaside towns of Scarborough and Robin Hoods Bay, the gothic architecture of Whitby or the vibrancy of cosmopolitan Leeds.
