Project Coordinator

Department: Education
Hours of work: 37 hours per week
Contract type: Fixed term for up to 24 months
Salary: £27,131 - £33,314 per year
Introduction

The position of a Project Co-ordinator has become available for 24 months from January 2023 at the Hungry Mind Lab (www.hungrymindlab.com) at the Department of Education at the University of York. The position is to support a research project awarded by the Nuffield Foundation to Prof Sophie von Stumm. The project’s aim is to study the role of children’s early-life language experiences in the transmission of family background inequality, and to disseminate the findings to various research stakeholders. The research focus is on understanding children’s developmental differences and charting how their early-life language experiences influence their later educational achievement and socio-emotional skills. This role would suit someone with a background in children’s early life development, language learning, or family inequality studies, with an interest in developing strong statistical skills, and the aim to complete a PhD in a social science discipline.

Main purpose of the role

The Project Coordinator will support Prof Sophie von Stumm and a post-doctoral research fellow (to be appointed) in all research tasks and the day-to-day running of the project. The Project Coordinator will receive training for each task and be supervised and supported throughout by Prof Sophie von Stumm and the project team.
